TORNADOES KILL 118 IN SIX STATES

BIG AMERICAN FORCES LAND IN AUSTRALIA

FRANTIC CALLS FOR HELP ANSWERED BY U. S. A.

Washington, March 16. (AP) —The army reported tonight that United States troops and aviation are in Australia "in considerable numbers" — an apparent answer to the frantic calls of that country for aid against an expected invasion attempt by the southward surging Japanese.

The terse announcement that American men and planes had arrived on the distant Pacific continent—a 7,500 mile journey across the Pacific—came from Secretary Stimson. Through a communique, he said only that "units of the United States army, including both air and ground troops in considerable numbers, are now in Australia. No information as to strength, designation of units, nor location is at present available for publication."

First Official Word

Tonight's announcement was the first official word from here that troops had arrived in Australia. Communiques and reports from overseas, however, had mentioned the presence of American planes.

United nations and other reports also had mentioned the presence of Americans in earlier western Pacific operations, including the battle of Java. Subsequent dispatches, however, indicated that the American personnel in Java was made up primarily of air force men.

The announcement of the presence of United States forces in Australia came at the end of a day which brought new evidence of the Japanese push, a raid on Port Darwin.

Jap Losses Continue

While there was no indication where on the continent the forces might have landed after the long sail across the enemy-menaced sea lanes of the Pacific, it was assumed here that Port Darwin was not the place. The port, originally intended as a base for allied operations, has been under several heavy aerial bombardments, some of which have caused substantial damage. Moreover, the route to Port Darwin is across the northern edge of Australia near the island of New Guinea, on which the Japanese have made landings.

Earlier in the day, the sinking of two Japanese ships and the destruction of at least five enemy warplanes in widely separated areas of the western Pacific were reported by the war and navy departments.

An American submarine, engaged in extensive operations in Japanese waters, sank an enemy freighter, the navy announced in a communique, and a 3,000-ton Japanese gasoline tanker was sunk in Philippine waters by naval action of an undisclosed type.

These sinkings brought to more than 150 the total of Japanese ships destroyed or damaged by United States forces since the war began.

Air Battle Won

Army communiques disclosed, meanwhile, that nine American pursuit planes and one unescorted heavy bomber destroyed at least five Japanese planes in actions off northern Australia and New Guinea, at a cost of one of the pursuit craft.

Michigan's Highway Maps Discontinued For War's Duration

Lansing, March 16, (AP)—The state highway department today announced discontinuance of the official state highway map, declaring this was done at the request of Maj. Gen. J. M. Cummins, sixth corps area commander. The announcement said the maps might be of value to "unfriendly agencies," and would not be issued again until after the war has ended.

BUREAU AGAINST FARMERS' UNION

Board of Directors Not In Favor of John L. Lewis Affiliation

Lansing, March 16 (AP)—The Michigan state farm bureau's board of directors went on record formally today, declaring itself a foe of the Michigan Dairy Farmers Union, a affiliate of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

The board adopted a resolution declaring farmers should not "become involved in membership in a farm organization fostered and possibly controlled by a labor organization or any other non-farm group."

"Whose voice can we expect to hear when such a farm organization speaks?" the resolution demanded, asserting that the organization would bring dairy farmers into a "miscellaneous conglomeration of such unions as workers in plastics, public utilities, casket manufacturing, drop forgings, cosmetics, etc."

At the same time Governor Van Wagoner's staff (the governor is away) received a telegram from Ralph H. Marlatt, organizational director of the United Dairy Farmers, complaining of "threats" which Marlatt said Sheriff Graham of Huron county has made against union representatives.

He gave no details, but accused Graham of "unlawful and un-American" activities when, he said, two union representatives sought Friday to "hold a peaceful assembly in Bad Axe."

Gogebic Can't Find Place For Insane

Lansing, March 16 (AP)—Six insans residents of Gogebic county have presented that county's officials with a real problem—where to commit them pending opening of space in a state hospital.

Probate Judge Michael E. Nolan of Bessemer wrote Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton for advice, reporting he has committed the patients to the Newberry state hospital, but that the hospital has no room for them and the county has no facilities for their care.

Rushton sent this reply today: "It is the duty of the various counties to provide a suitable place or places to care for persons adjudged insane, feeble-minded, epileptic or mentally diseased * * * until such persons have been permanently committted."

Delphine Of Detroit Now Navy Gunboat

Washington, March 16 (AP)—The Navy announced today that it had added three yachts to its growing group of private vessels acquired for patrol duty. The yacht fleet includes the 1,255-ton steam yacht Delphine, formerly owned by Anna Dodge Dillman of Grosse Point, Mich. The Delphine was built in 1921 at River Rouge, Mich., and is 241.7 feet long and is driven by 3,000 horsepower engines. As a Navy gunboat it had been renamed the U. S. S. Dauntless.

Boyne City Lets Smelt Pick Date For Big Festival

Police said Henderson was about 58.

Allies Hit Back After Jap Attack On Darwin

BY C. YATES McDANIEL

Melbourne, Australia, March 16 (AP)—The Japanese returned today to heavy aerial assaults upon Darwin, the northern mainland port being developed as an Allied naval base, and the Allied air arm struck back at the enemy above this continent in the fateful struggle slowly developing for the mastery of these far southern skies.

Darwin, three times previously attacked, this time was struck by 14 enemy bombers and, although the details were not available, it was made known that there were casualties and damage.

Prime Minister John Curtin at Canberra said the raid was on a smaller scale than previous Japanese assaults on Darwin.

United States and Australian pilots for their part were in almost continuous action over the periphery of the enemy's island bases from Timor on the west to New Guinea and New Britain on the east, but the day's only official announcement dealing with this running counter-offensive was of a raid on the enemy-held airdrome at Dili on Timor, a point about 450 miles northwest of Darwin, in which it appeared that great damage had been wrought.

"All bombs," said the comunique of the Royal Australian air force, "fell in the target area."

(In a belated report of action going back to last Friday, the war department in Washington announced that a single American four-motored army bomber had smashed at least two grounded enemy planes in a raid on a Japanese airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, and also had inflicted considerable damage on the runways. The American craft returned undamaged to its base.)

The day was one of swift preparation on every front to meet the expected storm of a full-scale enemy invasion of this continent.

POOL OF STATE CARS PROPOSED

Administrative Board to Consider Plan of Conservation

Lansing, March 16 (AP)—Auditor General Vernon J. Brown and State Budget Director Leo J. Nowicki proposed formally today that state-owned cars be placed in a "pool" to conserve machines and tires for use in vital state business.

The officials, who have arbitrary powers under the law to assign state-owned cars and take them away as they see fit, collaborated in preparing the plan for presentation to the state administrative board at tomorrow's scheduled meeting.

Under the plan, state-owned cars could be used only upon a showing that such use was "required for the vital and necessary functions" of government.

Only cars owned by the University of Michigan and Michigan State college, which are constitutional agencies; by the state police or purchased from state highway and game and fish license funds, would be exempt, under wording of the Brown-Nowicki resolution. This means that every other state official, department and institution would be required to surrender its cars to the pool.

The machines would be stored and serviced by the state automotive repair depot, the resolution provides; a central dispatching station would be established, and expert drivers supplied for the machines. Brown said he thought 50 or more cars could be retired from service.

Nine Plead Guilty To Stealing Parts From Ford Plants

Detroit, March 16, (AP)—Cases of nine persons who pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien today on charges of stealing parts from the Ford Motor Co. were referred to the federal probation office for report before sentence is passed.

Four other of the 59 defendants recently indicted by the federal grand jury, previously had pleaded guilty. A plea of innocent was entered today for Mrs. Dora Unger of Chicago, lone woman defendant, who stood mute when arraigned today.

SPRING DRIVE PUT OFF FOR NEXT SUMMER

FUEHRER'S BOASTS BOOMERANG, LIES ARE FOUND OUT

Washington, March 16 (AP)—Sumner Wells, acting secretary of state, asserted today that Adolf Hitler now knows that his downfall is near.

Welles made this statement in commenting on Hitler's speech in Berlin yesterday. The German leader predicted the "complete destruction" of Russia's armies next summer and went on to say that President Roosevelt not only would fail to create a new Europe but would "bring about the collapse of his own world."

Can't Fool World

There was a time, Welles told a press conference, when Hitler could hurl a "monstrous lie" around the world with devastating effect, but gradually the world has become aware of this technique and now the lies come back at him like boomerangs.

People have learned, Welles explained, to pay less attention to Hitler's admissions of his own fears and weaknesses with which his speeches abound.

The significance of Hitler's Sunday speech, he said, is to be found not in its boasts and promises but in the fact that "there is implicit in every word and every phrase Hitler's own recignotion of his impending downfall and of the envitable conquest of the German armies."

Russians Praised

"The magnificent resistance of the Russian armies and the defeats which they have inflicted upon the forces of Hitlerism," said Welles, "have in great part been responsible for bringing this to pass. These are the very armies whose annihilation Hitler announced many months ago."

As for Hitler's excoriation of President Roosevelt, Welles asserted "it is only natural that the kind of world in which President Roosevelt and the American people wish to live should be termed "a new, destable, alien world by Hitler.

"The kind of world for which the American people and their government stand is a world of international decency and of justice in which men and women will be free to worship, free to think and speak, and in which they will be free from fear. That is the only kind of world in which permanent peace can be established, and the Germans and the Italian people, like the peoples of the united nations, know that no such world can rise into being until Hitlerism and the gangsters who

TOWBOAT SINKS IN OHIO FLOOD

Dan Dewar of Bark River Among Hospitalized; 8 or 9 Perish

Wheeling, W. Va., March 16, (AP)—The body of one of the eight or nine persons believed to have perished today in the sinking of the towboat Kate Lyons was washed ashore by the swollen Ohio river several miles downstream at Wegee, O.

Thirteen persons were accounted for in hospitals here and at Bellaire, O., after the southbound steel towboat crashed into a Baltimore and Ohio railroad bridge pier five miles below Wheeling.

The time of the sinking was fixed at 4:15 p. m. Nearly two hours later the body of a man came ashore at Wegee and an undertaker at Bellaire, eight miles distant, dispatched an ambulance to the scene.

Workmen began dragging the stream in the vicinity for others believed to have lost their lives.

The towboat sank within 10 minutes, while the barges, carrying a cargo of steel from Pittsburgh, broke away and floated downstream.

The Kate Lyons, described as one of the most modern of towboats, was owned by the Lyons Transportation company of Pittsburgh.

The boat was hurled into the second pier from the Ohio side of the river between Bellaire, O., and Benwood, W. Va., by the swirling stream, swollen to 29 feet, seven under flood stage, by heavy rains.

Among 10 persons taken to the Bellaire City hospital was: Dan Dewar, of Bark River, Mich.

Reds Tighten Noose On 3 German Bases As Winter Repeats

(By The Associated Press)

London, March 16—In the heaviest fighting of the year on the Russian front, the Red army was delivering mighty blows out of the swirl of blizzards today against three of Hitler's encircled "spring offensive" bases and striving hard to draw the strings on two others caught in deep pockets.

For the second day, the Soviet command said only that "no substantial changes" had taken place —a departure from the communiques of many weeks which have stressed offensive operations.

Nazis Didn't Break

Any deduction that the Russians had been thrown upon the defensive was belied, however, by the Germans themselves who admitted a temporary breach in their lines somewhere in the center and strong Red army attacks in the Crimea.

The Russians said German casualties were piling up at a rate of thousands a day.

The Germans, bewailing that winter had set in again after an early March thaw on some southern sectors, told of 13 below zero temperatures (Fahrenheit) in the Crimea, 22 below in the central sector and 31 below in the north, with strong northeastern winds piling up snow so deep that even sledges were stopped in the center and north.

Most of the reports on progress of the Red army came in Stockholm dispatches which said Russian parachutists had seized strong fortified points behind the German lines in the central sector.

Apparently there was only a 30-mile gap between the north and south Soviet pincers about half way between Vyazma and Smolensk, 130 and 220 miles west of Moscow respectively.

It was in this general area that Russian parachutists were reported to have landed.

Kharkov Near Liberation

Here, too, was the apparent breach admitted by the Germans, who said however, that the Russians, attacking out of a blinding snowstorm, were repulsed after a 15-hour battle.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko was said to be throwing in the largest forces so far in action on the southern front in a desperate effort to oust the invaders from the Donets basin before Hitler can spring his offensive.

Reports today told of the recapture of several villages on that front after Russian dispatches yesterday had spoken of the approaching hour of liberation for Kharkov, the Ukraine's largest industrial city.

The Russians still battled to squeeze the encircled Germans at Staraya Russa, southeast of Leningrad, into surrender.

The Russians told of heavy fighting on the Leningrad front with 1,800 Germans killed in two days and ten blockhouses captured.

HEAVY BOMBERS CRASH, 14 DEAD

One Downed Near Boise, Another In Mountains At Pendleton, Ore.

Pendleton, Ore., March 16 (AP) —Four army airmen, including the pilot and co-pilot, were killed and two injured in the crash of a heavy bomber three miles south of Gowen Field at Boise, Idaho, Col. Frank W. Wright, commander of the Pendleton air base, reported today.

Another bomber went down in the rugged blue mountains 20 miles south of Pendleton.

A rescue party from the Pendleton air base reached the second bomber near here tonight. It reported the plane evidently crashed into a blue mountain range at full speed, caroming from one peak to another more than a mile away.

Wreckage was strewn over a small valley, and ten bodies were scattered.

Colonel Wright said both ships were on routine night flights. The last report heard from the plane which crashed near here was at 12:30 a. m. The Boise plane cracked up shortly after 2 a. m.

The Boise crash story as related by Colonel Wright:

Second Lieut. Charles S. Hosford III, Butler, Pa., the pilot, had signaled Gowen Field for a landing. He was on the wrong runway and was told by radio to make another attempt. He apparently failed to see the wooded hills on which the plane crashed as it circled for the landing. The fuselage was broken and the left motor and left wing burned.

All Pinball Games Shut Down May 1; 10,000 Affected

Washington, March 16 (AP)—The war production board tonight ordered the shut down of all manufacture of juke boxes, weighing machines, pinball games and other amusement machines on May 1.

The order affects an industry of about 30 companies, mostly in the Chicago area, employing about 10,000 persons.

The board said the shutdown would make available for war uses substantial quantities of copper, aluminum, nickel and other critical metals, and predicted that it would hasten the conversion of the $75,000,000 industry into war production.

Snowbound Farmer Walks 16 Miles To Pay His Income Tax

Cadillac, Mich., March 16 (AP)—Like thousands of others, David Swan, 77 year old farmer, paid his income tax today, the deadline for filing returns, but the circumstances were unusual.

Snowbound until Sunday night, Swan left his home near McBain shortly after midnight and walked the 16 miles to Cadillac in a freezing rain.

When he arrived here, internal revenue agents said, he was cold, saturated and almost exhausted.

PHIL IS CAPTAIN

Madison, Wis., March 16 (AP)—Former Governor Philip F. LaFollette, 45, who volunteered for war duty last December, has been commissioned a captain in the United States army, Col. Amory A. Miller, in charge of the Madison district, announced today. LaFollette was a second lieutenant in the first World War.

OVER 700 ARE INJURED; BLOW HITS ILLINOIS

MISSISSIPPI HAS 70 DEAD; BUILDINGS WRECKED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

A devastating series of tornadic winds sweeping through six southern and midwestern states yesterday (Monday) killed 118 persons, injured approximately 700 and destroyed thousands of dollars in property.

Seventy persons died in Mississippi and more than 500 were injured.

Disaster Belt Wide

Illinois listed 20 dead and 170 hurt, Tennessee counted 12 killed and 11 injured, entucky had 14 dead and a similar number injured, two died in Indiana and more than 30 suffered injuries. Missouri reported no casualties.

The Mississippi storms swept diagonally across the central to northeast parts of the state.

First reports, confirmed in some cases, said the death list included 19 at Greenwood, 13 at Belden, 10 at Grenada and vicinity, 5 at Oxford and Tula, 6 at Michigan City, 7 at Baldwin, 5 at Avalon and 5 at Water Valley, all in Mississippi.

The disaster zone in Mississippi, first reports showed, was at least 150 miles wide and 100 miles deep. Calls went out for all available persons with first aid training. Most of the area is rural.

Hospitals Jammed

Witnesses pictured hundreds of buildings completely crushed, roofs ripped off homes and make shift hospitals crowded with the injured.

The Tennesseans were reported killed in storms that struck widely scattered communities in the western part of the state. A house to house checkup was in progress to determine the completed number of casualties.

In Illinois at least 20 were killed and 170 injured in two tornadoes that slashed across six counties. Damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

In Kentucky a tornado struck at Browder, a coal mining community, killing nine and injuring 11.

A violent windstorm last night added to the chaos, ripping through Shelbyville in central Indiana and injuring at least three persons.

Houses Flimsy

Reports in Mississippi stated that 19 persons were killed at Greenwood, 10 at Graenada and in that vicinity, 5 killed and about 300 persons hurt at Oxford and nearby Tchula, 6 dead at Michigan City and five dead at Water Valley with more than 45 persons hurt.

All these towns and cities are in fairly close proximity in north central Mississippi. Many of the rural houses are of light frame construction unable to stand a heavy blow.

Communications were disrupted over the entire area. Debris over roads complicated relief work.

Jack Dale, editor of the North Mississippi Herald at Water Valley, said a small hospital there was filled with injured and that an emergency hospital had been opened in the city auditorium. He heard the heaviest casualties were at Grenada where a rumor said

Lansing, March 16 (AP)— In an effort to clear upper lake channels of ice for early movement of war vital iron ore, the state highway department today ordered its leased ice crusher, the Sainte Marie, to begin bucking ice floes in the St. Mary's river Wednesday.

Sending the big craft out 10 days earlier than usual, the department said the vessel would attempt to open the St. Mary's river first, then would extend its operations to various northern lake ports.

It will operate under the supervision of the navy and coast guard.

The Chief Wawatam will succeed the Sainte Marie as ferry across the Straits of Mackinac and will operate on the following schedule:

ISLE OF RHODES GETS SHELLING

English Naval Forces Stage Surprise On Italians

BY PRESTON GROVER

Alexandria, March 15 (Delayed) (AP)—British light naval forces sailed up to the Italian island of Rhodes in the eastern Mediterranean early today and poured shells into harbor dock and manufacturing facilities.

The rain of shells struck just as the RAF closed in with a coordinated bombing of airdromes on the large island of the Dodecanese off the Turkish coast.

The operation apparently caught the Axis defenders by surprise because shore batteries did not open up until the furious 15-minute British naval bombardment was finished. Even then the coastal defense fire was described as weak.

The British said the full extent of damage was not determined immediately because of the darkness, but they said the harbor front was raked thoroughly.

Only during the last two or three minutes of the fleet's bombardment did the Axis defenders, presumed to be mostly Italians, get into action with return fire. Shells could be seen looping high into the air and smashing into the water.

more than 150 persons had been killed or hurt, but believed this figure was excessive.

VILLAGE WIPED OUT

Danville, Ill., March 16, (AP)—Eleven persons were killed today by a tornado that slashed across three eastern Illinois counties and virtually demolished the small village of Alvin, north of here.

Five were killed in Alvin, where the storm tore up the business district shortly before noon and, an eyewitness said, left only a few residences standing.

An incomplete count showed that at least 55 persons were injured, some critically.

Approximately six hours after the twister brought death and damage to the three eastern counties, heavy winds struck a district 90 miles north and west of the first storm's path and raised the total number of injured in the state to at least 62.

Calling For Doctors

The evening storm was reported to have passed along a trail reaching from Cuba to Lacon, Lacon, a town of 1,600 population, was hardest hit. Its communication lines were disrupted and officials called for doctors and nurses from Peoria, 125 miles to the south.

The dead:

George Johnson, Goldie Hoover, Billy Smith, 12, Mrs. Bessie Scott, Mrs. Ollie Thornsbrough, all of Alvin.

Mrs. Hazel Laughlin, 25, and two daughters, Phyllis, 4, and Janice, 2, of near St. Joseph, Champaign county. Mrs. Aletha Rowland, 52, of near Mayview, Champaign county, Louise Maxine Douglas, six months, near Hope, northwest of Danville, and Raymond Bushue of Savoy, Champaign county.

The storm started near Bement, in Piatt county, and for 60 miles followed a straight line, going south of Champaign and north of Danville. It missed the villages and stayed in rural territory until it struck Alvin, a community of 339 population on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad about 15 miles north of here.

Baby Escapes

Through the center of Alvin the storm's path varied from one to two blocks in width. Some 25 houses, the railroad station and other business structures were blown down.

Near St. Joseph, between Urbana and Danville, the storm wrecked the farm house into which Willard Laughlin had moved his wife and three children on March 1. Dazed by injuries, Laughlin found the bodies of his wife and two girls in the house. His baby, ten months old, was taken to a Champaign hospital but wasn't seriously hurt.

The first twister whisked along a three-county, 60-mile path in the eastern part of the state shortly before noon and damaged or destroyed half of the 100 homes and buildings in the villages of Alvin.

The second storm gathered force about 4 p. m. in the vicinity of Canton, 90 miles west and north of the first twister, hopped along a 50 mile trail and wrecked a large section of Lacon.

Dug Out of Basement

The tornado cut a path 40 yards wide along a seven-mile stretch in the Lacon area. The damage was estimated at approximately $400,000, including 25 houses demolished and 25 others damaged.

A first aid and registration booth set up by Mayor R. L. Eddington and the civilian defense unit reported that five persons were killed in Lacon and vicinity and that 100 were injured—25 seriously.

Seventeen women and two children were attending a meeting of a church group in the home of Delmas Pettett in Lacon when the storm struck. They saved themselves by scurrying to the basement but some had to be dug out by rescue workers later.

Doctors, nurses, policemen and Red Cross disaster specialists were rushed to the stricken communities.

RIVERS OVER BANKS

(By The Associated Press)

Week-end thaws and heavy rains caused floods in some lower Michigan areas Monday.

Sebawaing, on Saginaw Bay, Grand Rapids, Flint and Owosso appeared hardest hit by day-long downpours.

The Sebawaing river, 12 feet above normal, overran its banks, flooding basements and inundating a square mile section of the residential section in the west side of the city, temporarily marooning residents.

An ice jam at the Pere Marquette railroad bridge a half-mile from the river's mouth caused waters to rise swiftly. In some places the water lay one and two feet deep.

At Grand Rapids, where the U. S. weather bureau at Detroit reported .97 of an inch of rain had fallen by 8:30 p. m., last night, the Grand river was 4.4 feet below flood stage.

Several families were evacuated from North Park, a Grand Rapids suburb, by sheriff's officers. County roads leading to the suburbs were closed. Sections of suburban Grandville and Johnson park, a Kent county recreational area, also were inundated.

At Flint, waters of Swartz Creek were three feet over the flooring of the Cedar street bridge. Basements were flooded in some houses and manhole covers were blown off overloaded storm sewers.

GOSHEN HOMES RAZED

Goshen, Ind., March 16 (AP)—At least two persons were killed and more than 30 injured as a tornado struck the southeastern section of Goshen at about 10:15 o'clock tonight.

The full force of the windstorm struck in a new residential district, fire broke out in the area and at least two homes burned.

Ambulances raced back and forth in the area as rescuers searched the ruins for victims.

Police said the property damage probably would be heavy. First reports were that the Wambaugh Chemical Company plant had been demolished, the new Parkside grade school and several factory buildings were hit.

At least ten homes were flattened.

Mediterranean Is Hot Spot - Allen

(Editor's Note: Larry Allen, home on leave after a danger-fraught assignment of nearly two years with the British Mediterranean fleet pictures for Wide World the possibilities of the Mediterranean situation. Allen was under fire many times, and narrowly escaped with his life after battling through oily scum for 45 minutes after the British light cruiser Galatea was torpedoed in December.)

BY LARRY ALLEN

New York, March 16 (Wide World)—The Eastern Mediterranean may become one of the hottest and most decisive battlefields of the war this spring.

Germany, with the aid of her faltering Axis partner, Italy, is expected by foreign military and naval observers to make an all-out attempt to smash British power and destroy one of Britain's last lifelines of communication with her far-flung empire.

The Nazi's strategy, according to these observers, contemplates a heavy thrust from Libya into Egypt and a relentless drive toward the Suez canal, simultaneously invading Turkey or high-pressuring the Turks into letting German troops pass through to attack Syria, Palestine and eventually the canal defenses.

Massing Parachute Troops

If this plan is put into operation, Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commanding the German-Italian forces in Libya, probably will get a lot of help from parachutist troops.

There are reports from fairly reliable sources that the Nazis are massing 40,000 parachute troops in Crete to be dropped in the rear of the British eighth army in Libya and possibly in Alexandria, Cairo, and along the canal itself.

Thus the zig-zag battles that have been fought and are being fought in the western desert of Libya between the British and the Axis forces may at any moment flare into a major offensive that could have a decisive effect in the outcome of the war.

Loss of Egypt and the Suez canal, which too would mean that the British navy might be placed in an untenable position in the Eastern Mediterranean, is regarded by foreign observers as a disaster that could be comparable only to the fall of England itself.

Marshal Rommel, despite the successes of British aircraft, submarines, and warships in destroying 60 per cent of all the enemy convoys running from Italy to Libya, nevertheless is believed to have stored up huge reserves of men and supplies that might enable him to push an offensive as far as the Suez canal.

Nazi bombers, too, might succeed in blasting the single desert highway linking the naval base Alexandria with Salum, and the only railroad between Alexandria and Matruh.

Should that happen, the British Army Commander-in-Chief, General Sir Claude Auchlinleck, would have to try to keep his forces supplied by motor lorries plowing through the desert sands.

The British, however, not overlooking the possibility of a two-way Nazi thrust from Libya and through Turkey, are tenaciously holding to strategic Positions in the western desert and getting ready to meet the full force of a Nazi land and air blast, should it come.

The possibility, too, is not excluded that the British may get the jump on the Axis and start their own offensive before the enemy is ready to throw his full power into a drive toward the Suez canal.

Turkey is a question mark. Most British army, navy and air force chiefs express belief that she will continue to stand firmly by Britain and fight to the last man if the Nazis and Bulgarians start a southward push.

But whether Germany attacks and fights her way through Turkey, or the Turks permit the passage of Nazi troops, oil likely will play a major role in determining German strategy.

The Nazis might try to take the Iraq and Mosul oil wells with light mechanized forces, while other units shoved toward the canal. The capture of Aden, at the south end of the Red Sea, and Bandar Shahpur, terminus of the Trans-Iranian railway line on the Persian Gulf, pratically would cut off American Communications with the middle east.

British Navy Hit Hard

The British navy, hitting hard and consistently in the Eastern Mediterranean, sank more than 1,000,000 tons of Axis shipping in 1941, but Rommel still got enough supplies through to Libya from Italy to start a counter-offensive recently.

The British say, and the enemy has admitted, that few convoys of oil supplies, ammunition and fresh troops ever reach Tripoli or Bengasi without being attacked by British aircraft, submarines, or warships.

The navy has maintained an average of sinking six out of every ten convoyed ships, but the ships that do reach Libya safely discharge huge quantities of war supplies.

The British fleet has played a vital part in keeping the British Imperial forces in Libya supplied with arms and equipment, unloading huge war cargoes in captured Cirenaican ports. As long as the British hold Tobruk, the navy probably will succeed in maintaining a supply line to that port.

But it is much more important to the British that the desert highway from Alexandria to Salum and the railway from Alexandria to Matruh be kept intact to give their armies all they need to beat back a large-scale Nazi-Italian offensive, or to start one of their own.

Prime Minister Churchill has said the British army and air force in Libya are stronger and better equipped than at any time since the Libyan desert battles started.

In addition to British made supplies, a steady stream of tanks, armored cars, fighter and bomber planes has poured into Libya from the United States via Suez.

EPIDEMIC IN NORWAY

Iron Mountain—Because seven or eight cases of scarlet fever have been reported in the Norway-Vulcan area, Dr. Alexander Witkow, county health director, has applied strict regulations in an effort to check the spread, he said today.

Known cases of the disease are quarantined for three weeks. After recovering, these persons may not attend public gatherings of any kind for two weeks.

Persons known to have had contact with the patients are required to remain isolated for one week, until they determine whether or not they have contacted the disease. After one week, if there are no symptoms, they are released.

SPRING DRIVE PUT OFF FOR NEXT SUMMER

compose it are finally crushed and defeated."

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

On any other Nazi lips but Hitler's own a vow to defeat Russia during "the coming summer" would be but meaningless rhetoric. It could do little to reveal actual Nazi plans.

In Hitler's mouth, however, that commitment has meaning. His personal prestige, not only with his suppressed people but with his army, is at stake. That army has tasted defeat for the first time in Russia, and under his personal captaincy.

Only complete and final victory in Russia could restore him to his pedestal in the eyes of his troops, and Hitler knows it. That was the price he paid for ousting his top generals and risking the dangers of "Napoleon's fate in 1812", he now admits.

Big Thaw To Come

Whether that danger is yet passed, as Hitler intimated, remains to be seen. There is considerable winter and a long spring thaw yet to be reckoned with in Russia.

Accept the view that his promise of complete victory this summer is a definite Hitler commitment to atone for terrible German losses, and it follows that every future German move, except against Russia, must be regarded as a diversion. Russian armies can be annihilated only in Russia, not on any other front.

Just when and where the summer drive will come depends probably on the weather. The unprecedented winter, the worst in a century or so, must be followed by an unprecedented spring. It will be late June probably before the ground is hard enough in the central and northern Ukraine, and northward to the Leningrad front, for mechanized warfare.

Squeeze Due In June

The weather moderates earlier in the southern Ukraine. However, during the thaw season, that area receives the run-off drainage of all western Russia south of the Valdai hills. The Black sea and the Sea of Azov receive those spring floods. It probably will be late May or even mid-June before the Nazi "summer offensive" can get going even in the south, and that is the road to oil, the resource above all others Hitler soon must reach.

Oddly enough, June seems also the most probable month for a possible Japanese assault on Russia's Vladivostok fortress and Siberian armies. Ice conditions in the northern end of the Sea of Japan tend to forbid any earlier Japanese move to match a Hitler attack on Russia from the west.

That lends color to Chinese and other speculation as to a possible combined Nazi-Japanese squeeze against Russia. It gives added significance to Hitler's references to "heroic" Japanese victories in the Pacific theater. It is what he hopes for, if not what Japan is yet willing to undertake.

After it was moved it was used for a saloon for a good many years. Some of the saloon keepers who operated business in the place were Charles Seymour, Philip DeSormeau, Fred Le Duc, George Marshand, Eli Cousineau, Joseph Dault and Matt Luchay.

BIG AMERICAN FORCES LAND IN AUSTRALIA

suit planes, while on patrol north of Australia March 14, the army said, encountered a large flight of enemy bombers escorted by fighter planes, and attacked immediately, although greatly outnumbered.

One of the American planes rammed a Japanese fighter, and both were destroyed. Another enemy fighter and one of the Japanese bombers were shot down, and the eight remaining American planes, undamaged, returned safely to their base.

The day before, a four-engined bomber flying alone on reconnaissance patrol east of New Guinea had damaged a Japanese-held airfield on the island of New Britain and destroyed at least two enemy planes on the ground, the army announced.

Apparently assigned primarily to look for any further attempts of the enemy to concentrate forces for a drive against Australia, the American four-engine plane attacked the Vunkanau airdrome at Rabaul, damaged the runways with several well-aimed bombs, and scored a direct hit on Japanese aircraft parked on the field.

A department communique said the bomber returned to its base undamaged.

The action, carried out on March 13, was the third attack on Japanese objectives in the New Guinea area to be reported by the war department in recent days.

On March 10, a formation of eight heavy bombers dropped 18 tons of bombs on Japanese shipping in the harbor of Salamaua, on the east coast of New Guinea, leaving two ships sinking, four burning, and one beached.

The next day five American heavy bombers raided enemy air fields at Salamaua and at Lae, also on New Guinea. They destroyed buildings, damaged runways, and scored a direct hit on a pier at Lae.

Attacked by a formation of Japanese fighters, the bombers shot down five of the enemy planes and returned undamaged to their base.

SIMON SERIOUS IN TITLE FIGHT

BY SID FEDER

Summit, N. J., March 16 (AP)—You'd think that after a fellow got slapped in the face by a meat cleaver for the better part of an evening, he'd be slightly less than hilarious about taking a second whirl at it. But "Our Abraham" Simon is quite pleased at the prospect.

The dainty dreadnaught from Long Island isn't pooh-poohing Joe Louis as he rounds into shape for him second session with the Bomber in Madison Square Garden a week from Friday. But he figures he took Joe's Sunday shots for 13 rounds a year ago in Detroit and lived, so then, what is there to worry about?

"I realize that he's the fastest puncher there is. No one ever had the speed throwing a blow. And of course if I get in the way, there's a chance the roof might fall in. But I'm faster myself now, and my left hand is working swell."

He wasn't kidding about that left. It's a neat little weapon which resembles the working end of a steam shovel and when Abe lets go of it, the chances are it will clear a path of everything in the way.

Another thing about Ample Able, he works like a longshoreman getting himself into condition, and when a fellow expects to be led to the chopping block he doesn't go through all that self-denial and tough training grind.

Lone Star is the name of a Kansas town.

Details Of Sugar Rationing Program Here Not Completed

The days and dates of registration for sugar reationing in Delta county have not yet been designated, Peter LeClaire, chairman of the county rationing board, said yesterday in reminding county citizens that they will be informed some time in advance of the registration dates.

All of the necessary material for the registration has not yet been received and final arrangements for handling the work at the schools has not yet been completed. It is expected that county teachers will receive instructions in how to handle the registration at a meeting sometime this week.

The amount of sugar available under the sugar rationing program which will go into effect about the second week in April will be one-half pound per person per week, according to a statement made by Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner.

The rationing registration period, originally set for March 16, was delayed to permit a thorough distribution of the millions of rationing booklets. While the word "sugar" does not appear on the rationing booklets, the first eight stamps in the booklet will be good for one pound of sugar each, and each stamp will be good for two weeks.

"I believe it is important to note that the war rations booklet is not for sugar alone," the governor said, "but is for any other product which may be rationed—coffee or a suit of clothes or gasoline or what not. The present plan is for the government to announce what the stamps may be used for."

Present fashions in women's clothes will prevail until the war is won in accordance with an order affecting women's apparel that will be issued soon by the war production board, R. R. Guthrie, chief of the textile, clothing and leather goods branch of the WPB, announced.

"It is our desire to more or less freeze the existing silhouette," Guthrie said. "The object will be to prevent radical changes in style that would make women's clothes now worn or already cut out of style, resulting in a waste of materials in clothes now manufactured and a heavy demand for the new materials required for new style clothes.

"We are fully cognizant of the importance of fashion and fashion creators to the garment and retail trades, and to the general field of public morale."

Payroll Allotment Plan Begun By Company Employes

Nahma, Mich.—Employes of the Bay de Noquet Lumber company have signed pledges for monthly allotments totaling $1,024.50 for defense bonds under the payroll deduction plan, February brought to a close the first month of the plan's operations.

This figure represents pledges from about sixty per cent of the crew, which now numbers about two hundred men. It is anticipated that in the next month or two, monthly pledges will be increased to about $1,500.

A number of the employees of the Bay de Noquet company have purchased bonds directly at the Nahma postoffice.

Figures for the month of February show a total of $1,987.50 was paid for bond purchases in Nahma. Of this amount, $1,443.75 was for cash purchases and $543.75 was in payroll allotments.

Larceny Case Will Be Investigated By Probate Officials

Lyle Johnivan, 16 year old Escanaba youth who was returned here Saturday night from Jackson to face a larceny charge, was turned over yesterday to probate authorities when it was discovered that the boy is a minor. Probate Judge William Miller will make an investigation of the case before any action is taken.

It is alleged that Johnivan, while employed as a bell-hop at the Sherman hotel here, made off with $47 of the hotel's funds. He was taken into custody at Jackson late last week.

Forest Service Manpower In 1942 Work Uncertain

The volume of manpower to be available for fire protection, maintenance, timber stand improvement and other work of the U. S. Forest Service in U. P. national forests this year likely will hinge largely on the fate of a deficiency bill now under consideration in congress, Supervisor Paul A. Wohlen of the district Forest Service office here said yesterday.

Wohlen and Asssitant Supervisor Louis Harrison of the district office attended in Milwaukee last week a meeting of Forest Service officials called at the regional office headed by Jay H. Price.

Price received many proposals from the Forest Service men in attendance at the conference, Wohlen said. However, action on the recommendations likely will not be made for several weeks, possibly not until after the fate of the deficiency bill is determined.

The steady decline in the number of CCC camps in the U. P. Forests, the Hiawatha and the Marquette has played havoc with planting, fire protection and other projects of the Forest Service.

In a pre-conference statement Price pointed out that the forest service must curtail its recreational and wildlife activities this year and concentrate on timber sales. The demand for wood products has been increased tremendously by the war, he said, adding that the forest service is co-operating with the army and navy to a great extent.

NAHMA INDIAN GETS 90 DAYS

Beaver, Tipsy Driver, Is Parolee From State Prison

Ambrose Beaver, Nahma Indian arrested by state police officers near Gladstone last Saturday afternoon and charged with driving under the influence of liquor, was sentenced here yesterday by Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette to 90 days in the county jail. A parolee from Marquette prison where he served part of a sentence for negligent homicide, Beaver may be returned there to complete his sentence, state police officers said. The case has been turned over to prison parole authorities. Beaver was driving without an operator's license, his permit having been suspended following his conviction in the negligent homicide case in 1938.

Four companions of Beaver's, Daniel Moses, Caroline Nedeau, Ben Beaver and Jacob Peaine, all Nahma Indians, were given sentences of 15 and 30 days for drunken and disorderly conduct.

A Lesson in Defeat

THE Japanese and United Nations engaged in a three-day naval battle in the Java sea a couple weeks ago, and the Nipponese won a tremendous victory, giving them mastery over the South Pacific.

In what has been termed a second battle of Jutland, the Japanese sank 12 warships of the allied nations, including the United States cruiser Houston and the destroyer John D. Pope, while they themselves suffered either destruction of or severe damage to eight ships. Our forces were outnumbered three to one, and some consolation may be derived from the fact that we were able to inflict some losses upon the enemy.

The defeat in the Java sea places Australia in a precarious position. No longer can this island depend upon the British and Allied fleets for protection.

Australia must be held at all costs, however, if the United Nations are to ever wage a counter-offensive to regain what has been lost in the Japanese blitzkrieg. The defense of the island "down under" depends now upon land and air reinforcements. Australia has contributed her valiant fighting men to Crete, Libya, Greece and other battlefields to stop the Axis oppressors, leaving herself undermanned. It is now the responsibility of her allies to see to it that she gets reinforcements.

While the United States trains and sends her soldiers to Australia, the men and women in the factories must gird themselves for a much greater production of airplanes, tanks and guns to arm those who are fighting to keep the war from our shores. To achieve our objectives there must be an end put to labor strikes, "business as usual" in industry, and the political sniping that confuses and disunites our people.

Fingerprinting Is O. K.

CITIZENS who volunteer for civilian defense service as air raid wardens, auxiliary police and firemen are required to submit to fingerprinting, according to the regulations now in effect.

Some citizens have displayed a haughty attitude about this regulation. They complain that they are treated like criminals when they want to perform a patriotic service.

This is entirely the wrong attitude to take, however. Such precautions must be taken for the protection of all. The value of fingerprinting already has been demonstrated. In one city it was discovered that two volunteers for voluntary fire fighting work had been convicted on charges of arson. Just last week, a naturalized American citizen, who had served as treasurer of a pro-Nazi organization, was among the air raid wardens elected in Milwaukee.

Plans discussed at the first meeting of the Escanaba civilian defense council last week call for the enlistment of about sixty auxiliary police and firemen. It is hoped that Escanaba citizens will not be deterred by the fingerprinting bugaboo. After all, no honest, law-abiding citizens need worry about this matter. Only criminals should fear fingerprinting.

Backbone of Defense

TRANSPORTATION by rail is vital to the war effort. You don't have to take a railroad man's word for it. The United States War Department has just made that statement in the 1941 revision of its technical manual on the use of rail transportation in the zone of the interior—that is, the continental U. S.

"The arterial railway system," states this manual, "is the backbone of our . . . . national defense, and all other forms of transport are for us but extensions and auxiliary services . . . . Rail transportation provides a service which insures that a body of troops and their impedimenta will be transported to destination with the least amount of inconvenience and fatigue . . . . The railroads can supply equipment so balanced and in such quantities as to fit exactly the needs of a particular situation." In other words, only the railroads can supply units so complete that troops can carry whatever is required in armament and equipment so that they can go into action as soon as they leave the train, if necessary.

When it comes to transporting the industrial materials needed to feed an insatiable modern war machine, the railroads are again the very backbone of war. All other continental agencies of transport, valuable and necessary as they are, simply supplement rail service. It is to the locomotive and the cars it hauls that we must turn when there is a gigantic job to be done.

This is why the railroads must always be in a position to expand when necessary. They must be able to buy the materials they need to maintain their present facilities and keep them in repair, and to add the additional cars and engines which additional demands may bring upon them. In these terrible days, no industry is more essential to the preservation of freedom and the winning of the war than the railroads.

The Fruits of Hoarding

HOARDING of commodities produces two certain results—high prices, and government-enforced rationing.

An excellent example of that is touched on in one of Paul Mallon's recent columns. Writing on the sugar situation, Mr. Mallon says: "Food authorities have counted up sugar stocks and conclude these are sufficient to furnish 99 pounds to everyone in this country this year. The average consumption for eight years from 1932 to 1940, was 103 pounds, so the amount available is only four pounds less than normal . . . .

"But whether you will get your 99 pounds this year, is a question . . . . While stocks are almost adequate, hoarding continues. Rationing is inevitable, solely because of demand and not because of inadequate supply."

In short, those who hoarded sugar brought the rationing program on themselves and all other consumers. And the hoarders will not even be individually benefitted by their abnormal stocks—when you get your sugar ration cards, tickets will be removed to compensate for watever excess supply you have on hand. Extremely severe criminal penalties are provided for fraudulent declarations.

The best advice any consumer can take is this: "Buy normally—don't purchase in excessive quantities — don't hoard." The retail stores of this country, led by the chain systems, are preaching that doctrine now. It is an essential protection against inflation and shortages of necessities. You can be certain that free competition in manufacturing and merchandising will keep prices at the lowest level—and make possible the widest distribution of goods of all kinds.

CAN TAKE NO CHANCE
(Kansas City Star)

In the west coast areas alone there are about 120,000 persons who have been designated as enemy aliens. In California alone there are some 39,000 Japanese aliens, with 60,000 other persons who might be affected by the order. Because of these conditions local uneasiness has grown, bringing with it possible dangers to the alien and other groups themselves.

It is therefore for the protection of the Japanese as well as the local areas and the whole country that the precautionary steps are to be taken. They may include not only rigid restrictions upon the movements of these people but transfer of many or even all of them to other sections, possibly with the use of camps as a temporary or emergency resort.

But whatever is done can be done with every consideration for the people affected, consistant with the nation's security. Fifth column activity was an important factor in the Pearl Harbor disaster. America can take no chances of any repetition of that experience. Prevention is the urgent course. It is the policy now adopted and to be used.

'DON'T COME TO WASHINGTON'
(Dubuque Telegraph-Herald)

Washington is a magnet these days, a light that draws many a buzzing insect toward it. In fact, the insects might well become so numerous as to blot out the light.

Thus the Civil Service Commission warns that if you want a paid job serving the government, don't come to Washington. First, check civil service bulletins at your post office to see if you've got what's wanted. If you don't see it, write to the National Emergency List, United States Civil Service Commission, at Washington for a questionnaire on which you can tell what you can do. If you have special technical or professional qualifications, write to the National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel, Washington, D. C.

All of which will perhaps save you a night sleeping in Lafayette Park, and also help relieve a congestion in Washington which is becoming overwhelming.

Boston: The word ABRACADABRA is often used in the meaning of "a nonsensical formula, doctrine, or ritual." Where did this queer word come from?—Dr. B.

Answer: It is ancient, indeed. In the second century, the word was supposed to have magic powers in curing fevers. When arranged thus on talismans, the word signified, "Disappear, O, sickness, as this word disappears!"

Foreign News Analyzed

BY CONSTANTINE BROWN

Coming weeks are likely to be the darkest and most difficult in the history of the United States and Great Britain. All reports from abroad indicate that the great synchronized military offensives of the Japs and Nazi-Fascists are about to start.

The Russians, in an endeavor to engage as many Nazi troops as possible, are launching costly and desperate attacks on a line from Leningrad to Taganroy, along which the Nazi forces are still anchored, despite the repeated efforts of the Russians to dislodge them.

The Japanese appear to have decided on a two-pronged offensive. Their attack against India is being made mainly with land forces from Thailand and Indo-China and with planes based at various points near the Bay of Bengal. They are counting on the support of Indian nationalists, as they did on anti-British forces in Burma.

Enemy naval forces are concentrating on a systematic effort to establish themselves as close as possible to the Australian mainland. The islands in the neighborhood of Australia are poorly defended. Few Australian forces are stationed there because the bulk of the dominion's trained manpower was sent early in the war to other fields of operation, such as the Near East.

A substantial number of Australians and New Zealanders were lost in the campaigns in Greece and Crete. Another considerable number were killed or taken prisoner in Malaya and Singapore. The remainder of Australia's manpower was drafted into the army only recently and has neither the proper equipment nor the necessary training to be considered a real military force.

The defense of Australia until a few months ago was based on Britain's sea power. Until the Japanese conquered Malaya and Singapore it was believed there could be no actual Japanese menace to the Pacific dominion of Great Britain, and the entire system of mobilization was based on support of Britain in fields far away from home.

It was only when the Japanese began to conquer the Indies that the Australian and New Zealand governments became aware that they risked invasion. After those tragic defeats it was also recognized at Canberra that British naval power was no longer an adequate shield against the Japanese. Because the bulk of Australian and New Zealand trained forces was sent to help the empire elsewhere, Australia's vital outposts did not have the necessary protection, either in men, aviation or land fortifications. A defensive curtain was improvised, but it has so far proved completely inadequate.

Although Japanese invasion forces suffered serious losses Thursday at the hands of Australian-American aviation, the sinking of half a dozen transports is not considered in competent quarters sufficient to prevent the Jap high command from completing the task it has set for itself. At Macassar the Japanese lost heavily, but this did not prevent their conquering the Netherlands Indies.

Unless the American contribution to the defense of Australia is really substantial and consists of more than one or two divisions, there is no question that our friends "down under" will have a hard time in the near future.

The Nazis, according to all reports reaching Washington, are preparing a large scale offensive within the next few weeks. They will endeavor to obtain a decision against Britain and Russia this year, if possible, before America has completed its military preparations. Even if they fail in this, they expect at least to dislodge the British from the Mediterranean and to conquer the rich oilfields of Iraq. Moreover they hope to induce the Turks, either by argument or force, to open the Dardenelles to the German fleet so as to be able to attack Russia through the Black sea.

All the Reich's allies have now been requested to make a supreme effort to help the Nazis win a victory before the winter sets in again. The French are being urged to hand over the fleet, and it is feared in responsible diplomatic quarters that this will be done shortly. The Bulgarians, who have an army of at least 200,000 men with a potential of another 200,000, are being armed to fight the Turks, while the Rumanians and Hungarians have received large quantities of modern equipment to prepare their forces for an all-out attack against either the Turks or the Russians. These forces are not particularly reliable, but when they are "boxed" with German units ready to shoot at them if they attempt to revolt, it is believed the Hungarian and the Rumanian armies will be useful assets to the Nazis.

The curtain is due to rise in the Mediterranean in a short while. Japanese victories in the last three months have been only the prologue to the drama which will be enacted in the next nine months.

Q. How much of the world's wool supply comes from Australia? A. D. S.

A. Australia exports one-fifth of the world's wool. There are sixteen times more sheep than people in the country.

Q. How many times and upon what occasions did Jesus speak of war? L. N. E.

A. The only words that Jesus said about war are found in Matthew 24:6: And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars, etc.

Q. Is there still a British official with the title "Keeper of the King's Conscience"? M. N. A.

A. "The Keeper of the King's Conscience" was an earlier title of the Lord Chancellor. His position formerly was ecclesiastical and he was the King's Confessor. Today, the Lord Chancellor represents the Crown and presides over the House of Lords.

Q. Please give some information about the Live Oak Tree Society. R. N. K.

Q. What kind of a game is fronton, that is played extensively in Mexico? R. H.

A. The fronton is a popular indoor-sports arena that gives its name to the game played in it. This is the same game that elsewhere is called jai alai or pelota a cesta and is reputed to be the fastest in the world. The players have a basket-scoop fastened to their right hands in which they catch the ball and hurl it back against a wall.

Q. Why do English bishops wear gaiters? R. C. E.

A. This is a relic of the time when the duties of a bishop took him from parish to parish in his diocese on horseback. For the same reason the bishop's hat has strings.

Q. How long does a day last on the earth? M. W.

A. Each day lasts 48 hours on the earth from the time it begins on the west of the International Date Line until it entirely runs its course to the east of that line.

Q. By what organ in the body is the sense of balance controlled? T. S.

A. The mechanism of equilibrium depends upon the labyrinth organs in the internal ear, the sense organs in the muscles, tendons, joints and skin, and in many animals, the eyes.

Q. How did the Smoky Mountains receive their name? L. L. M.

A. The National Park Service says that no one knows the origin of the name Smoky Mountains. The Indians had no special name for the mountains. The white settlers of the region have called the mountains the Smokies or Great Smokies for generations. The name is probably due to the fact that a blue haze or mist hovers over the mountains. This mist or haze is sometimes so dense as almost to shut out the distant view, as smoke does that has spread from a far-off forest fire.

Cat farming is the latest industry proposed as a money making venture in a letter received by an Escanaba business man from The General Foundling company of Grand Rapids. The letter reads as follows:

"The object of this company is to operate a large cat ranch near Grand Rapids where land can be purchased cheaply. To start with, we will collect about 100,000 cats. Each cat will average twelve kittens a year. The skins will sell for from ten cents for the white ones to seventy-five cents for the pure black. We will have about 12,000,000 skins to sell, at an average of 30 cents a piece, making our revenue about $10,000 a day, gross.

"A man can skin fifty cats a day. He will charge $2.00 a day for his labor. It will take about one hundred men to operate the ranch, therefore the profit will be about $9,800 a day. We will feed the cats on rats and will start a rat ranch, adjoining the cat ranch. The rats will multiply four times as fast as the cats, and if we start with 1,000,000 rats, we will have four rats a day for each cat, which is plenty. We will feed the cats on rats and in turn will feed the rats on the stripped carcasses of the cats, thus giving each rat one-fourth of a cat. It will be seen by these figures that the business will be self-acting and automatic. The cats will eat the rats and rats will eat the cats, and we will get the skins."

Hollywood Column

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Hollywood—By this time, maybe, the movie-makers have got around to realizing that Arline Judge really wants to work.

Not that it will do 'em any good, since Miss Judge already is working. But most producers took a long time believing that dramatic ambition still smoldered among the sultry charms of the black-haired little actress who quit pictures more than five years ago at the insistence of a brand-new husband.

Even though the marriage did not work out very well, word got around that Millionaire Dan Topping (now Sonja Henie's husband) was paying his ex-wife $7000 a month. Such an income, together with what she must have salvaged from her prosperous movie career and a previous divorce, seemed to preclude in Hollywood's mind any likelihood that Miss Judge wanted to toil seriously.

Doubtlessly she doesn't have to work, but it's almost certain Topping isn't paying such fancy alimony as $84,000 a year. All I know is that when I had lunch with her she was wearing a sable scarf that must have been six months old, and an aqua-marine ring no larger than a boxing glove, and that she mentioned giving up her claim to a very expensive automobile ordered before the big freeze.

WEARISOME WORK

When Arline Judge returned to Hollywood last year she already had a job, but not one that proved any help in the resumption of a career. In November, 1936, she had been suspended by 20th-Fox following her marriage to Topping and her announcement that she wouldn't make any more pictures. The contract had four months to run, so on her return she fulfilled it. All she did, though, was pick up her weekly paychecks.

More months of idleness followed. Next door to her lived two writers, and they put her into a screen play, basing one of the characters on her personality and manner of talking. But when the writers suggested her for the role, the producer said she wasn't the type at all. Other producers refused to believe that she really wanted to work, and when they meet her these days they say, "I wish I'd known you were around, darling. I held up a picture six weeks trying to find someone just like you."

TOO BUSY NOW

Finally she took her pride in hand and made a couple of quickies at an independent studio. Then came a minor role in "The Lady Is Willing," at Columbia, and lately the lead in "Wildcat" for Paramount. That studio wanted to keep her on contract, but 20th-Fox stepped in with an offer which she accepted because it is a specific two-picture deal.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington — It looks as if John L. Lewis is getting ready to do another bolt act.

Significant under cover signs indicate that the miner czar is preparing the stage for a walk out of the CIO, which he took the leading role in founding six years ago.

The United Mine Workers, which Lewis rules with an iron fist, has not paid its CIO per capita tax for several months, and he has been summoning UMW leaders before him and "utimatuming" them with a blunt demand that they declare themselves for him or Phil Murray, president of the CIO and vice president of the UMW.

Also last Thursday, in Lewis' office, there was a meeting of UMW executive board members that was steeped in mystery.

The inside story is that Lewis first sent out notices for a secret board meeting with the intention of having it vote approval (1) of the UMW quitting the CIO, and (2) declaring vacant Murray's office as UMW vice president and the West Virginia District presidency held by Van Bittner, a veteran UMW chief and close friend of Murray.

But word of the proposed meeting leaked to newsmen who began asking Lewis questions about it. Thereupon, according to insiders, he hastily dropped his original plan for a head-on showdown and resorted to strategy.

At his behest the board voted that a special committee of five be sent to West Virginia to investigate alleged operator violations of the UMW contract and "certain other matters." Insiders say the investigation is a smoke screen to mask the real purpose of the committee which is to axe Bittner and to torpedo a big State miner rally that Murray is scheduled to address.

—ME OR ELSE—

CIO insiders tell a sensational story of Lewis' tactics in pressuring UMW leaders into line.

It is related that he summoned Tom Kennedy, little, mild-mannered veteran UMW secretary-treasurer, and bluntly demanded, "Tom, you've got to choose between Phil Murray and me."

Stunned for a moment, Kennedy finally regained his breath and protested.

"That isn't fair, John," he said. "You ought not to do that to me. This isn't a question of personalities. It's a question of principles. After all you, Phil and I have worked hard together for the things we thought were right for many years."

Lewis, it is said, silently chewed his big cigar for a few moments and then fixing Kennedy with an icy stare said, "Yes, we have been together a long time. But that's over now. You've got to choose, and right now."

The story ends there. But it is significantly pointed out that Kennedy was at last Thursday's board meeting that "unanimously" voted the mysterious five-man "investigating" committee.

Note: Hand-picked Lewis organizers made a strenuous effort to split up the powerful UMW Local 12165 in New York into a number of smaller separate units, but were overwhelmingly defeated. It was flatly charged that the purpose of the maneuver was to give Lewis more votes at the UMW convention to enable him to put over the ouster of Murray and the walkout from the CIO. Shortly after Lewis' setback, Sam Machlin, leader of the Local for a number of years and chiefly responsible for its growth into one of the strongest in the country, was fired by Kathryn Lewis, daughter and right-hand lieutenant of John L. When the Local still refused to submit to Lewis' demands, he followed up Machlin's dismissal by revoking the Local's charter, which enabled him to seize its records and funds and put his own henchmen in control.

—CLASH WITH MURRAY—

The reported crackdown on Kennedy set CIO circles buzzing, but it didn't hold a candle to a personal Lewis-Murray encounter that followed.

This meeting took place unexpectedly when the two men ran into each other in a Washington hotel lobby; according to eye-witnesses, Lewis immediately stalked up to Murray and rasped out, "Phil Murray, you owe me an apology."

"If anyone has any apologizing to do, John," Murray replied quietly, "it's you."

Glaring, Lewis pushed his face close to Murray's and for a moment onlookers say they feared there would be blows. But Murray calmly returned Lewis' angry look and then again quietly said, "If ever there was a man who should be ashamed of what he has done, it is you, John."

With that Murray turned on his heel and walked away.

Labor insiders say that a secret tie-up between Dubinsky, ambitious little boss of the International Ladies Garment Workers, and John L. Lewis was behind the attack on Sidney Hillman on the charge that Hillman's union, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, had a monopoly on Army uniform contracts. Shortly before the attack, the attorney of the ILGW was hired by Lewis as the lawyer of one of his unions.

TIME

For ages past, in prose and rhyme, mankind has wondered, "What is Time?" Has pondered o'er its nature long—devoted to it study strong. It's not the clock upon the wall, o'er whose face pointers creep and crawl. It's not the movement of the sun, from dawn of morn, till day is done. It's nothing tangible to see, like lake and river, earth and tree. And when we try to pin it down, with thought and speculative frown, we end always at nothingness—there's naught on which we can impress. It seems to us that yesterday was just the same as now; "Today." It seems to us tomorrow too, is just "today" when it comes due. Think as we will, with mental twist, it just seems time does not exist

BUSINESS SEES INCREASE HERE

February Activity Was 24 Per Cent Gain Over Year Ago

February business activity in Escanaba this year showed a 24 per cent gain over the same month a year ago and thereby attained the best dollar volume recorded for any February in recent years, according to the monthly report of bank debits just released by the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis. This February volume totaled $3,829,000.

Local debit volume for the first two months of 1942 stood 23 per cent above the 1941 January-February figure, this compares with an 18 per cent gain shown as the average of reporting cities throughout Upper Michigan.

As bank debit figures represent, for the most part, the dollar total of checks drawn by depositors against their bank accounts in payment for goods, services, debts, etc., the debit figures for a locality are considered a good indicator of general business activity.

Bank debit figures reported from cities throughout Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota and parts of Wisconsin and Michigan showed a year-to-year February gain of 26 per cent while accumulated totals for the first two months of 1942 show an average gain of 28 per cent over comparable 1941 figures.

Figures for Upper Peninsula cities follow:

Such terror was caused by the comet of 1680 that people wore medals to ward off its evil effects.

St. Patrick Day Program Enjoyed At Kiwanis Club

St. Patrick's day was observed one day in advance with a pleasing entertainment program at the meeting of the Escanaba Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon.

Briton Hall sang two Irish songs, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Mother Machree," with Ross Stoakes playing the piano accompaniment. A portion of the seventh grade boys glee club sang a group of Irish numbers. The singers were: David Locke, Bob Huckenpahler, Eric Hammar, Wilmer Hansen, Billy Cleereman, Donald Moreau, John Kress and Joseph Leduc.

John J. Bartella, a charter member of the Escanaba Kiwanis club when it was organized 20 years ago, reviewed the history of the organization and cited some of its accomplishments.

Impersonations of well known radio characters were given by Gene Mason of Escanaba, who received much applause from his listeners.

E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, appeared at the meeting and asked the club to appoint a committee to confer with similar groups of other service clubs on Friday regarding the problem of agricultural labor. Representative farmers of the county also will attend Friday's meeting. Mr. Wenner said that many farmers are beginning to wonder whether it would be wise for them to plant as much of their crops as normally for they fear they will be unable to obtain enough labor next summer and fall.

FARMERS SEEK VOLUNTEER AID

Service Clubs Meeting Friday On Farm Labor Problem

Committees of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs will meet here Friday with a group of Delta county farmers in an effort to work out a plan for relieving the agricultural labor shortage which is expected to become acute next spring, summer and autumn.

E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, appeared before the three service clubs and apprized the members of the critical situation.

The county agent said he disapproved of proposals to use inmates of the state prison and west coast Japanese on the farms of this territory. He also stated that the farmers would rather have inexperienced volunteers than WPA workers, and made an appeal to the business and professional men to take time off from their city duties to help the farmers in the fields.

Potatoes must be in the ground before June 1, and help will be needed to cut seed tubers, planting, and later for harvesting, Wenner explained. He expressed his opinion that volunteers could do this work.

"We may have to take hitches in our belts in another year unless the problem is solved," Wenner said. "The situation is getting so serious that many farmers are wondering whether they should reduce their acreage this year instead of increasing it to meet the demand for more food production."

Serial Numbers Of Draft Registrants

Following is a partial list of the new registrants registered with the local draft board of Delta county, along with their serial numbers. In all, there are 1825 registrants in the county.

Their "order numbers" will be determined by the national draft lottery in be held in Washington, D. C., today.

The balance of the registrants' names and numbers will be published in Wednesday's Press. Registrants whose names do not appear today may find their serial numbers posted on a bulletin at the draft board offices, 1019 Ludington street.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Mrs. America was thinking recently how tough sugar rationing was going to be on her and the family—liking pie and cake as much as they do. And thinking of not having a car, and that walking to the market, to bridge club, and to the beauty salon wasn't going to be much fun. Then she picked up up her newspaper and read an item that gave her quite a jolt.

American women—the article said—could best be described as "dumpy." And the authority for the article wasn't some woman-hating feminine detractor.

RUDE AWAKENING CAUSED BY SURVEY

It seems that recent research done by the Bureau of Home Economics in Washington showed that the average American woman over 18 years of age is five feet, three inches and weighs 133 and one-half pounds. Her bust measurements are 35.62, waist 29.15, and hips (shame on her) are 38.62.

Compare that with the measurements of the slim young things we want to look like like and often kid ourselves we do—and you see why Mrs. America got such a rude shock. For the woman who looks the way we think a woman ought to look today is a stream-lined five feet, six inches tall weighs only 122 pounds, has a 34-inch bust, a 25-inch waist and (what's a girdle shortage to her?) is only 35 inches around the hips.

No wonder Mrs. America put down her paper, and got out her tape measure to read on it some discouraging figures.

So she could best be described as dumpy, could she? Well, she would see about that.

And right away she had something more to worry about than a possible sugar shortage and the fact that she would have to start walking whether she wanted to or not. There must be some pretty good psychologists in the government's Bureau of Home Economics.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Because an article belongs to a member of your family should you feel free to use it without asking permission?
2. Is it all right for one member of a family to open another's mail?
3. Is it good manners to take a package from a delivery boy without saying "Thank you"?
4. If you are offered a cigaret but would rather smoke your own brand is it polite to say, "I don't like that kind"?
5. Should you carry away your hostess' monogrammed matches?

What would you do if—

You have unintentionally hurt another person's feelings—

(a) Explain if you can do so without making matters worse; otherwise, try to be especially considerate in the future?

(b) Take the attitude that if he wants to get his feelings hurt you can't help it?

Answers

WASHING RAYONS

If the label on rayon underwear gives laundering directions, follow them exactly. If not, then there are points to remember. Luke warm water and a tested-for-rayon soap, gentle handling (no wringing), careful rinsing and drying over a smooth bar or line (no clothes pins), pressing with a warm iron—should solve washing problems. If you live in a locality where the water is hard, a mild softening agent is helpful to prevent soap scum.

A "sugar bush" is a maple grove or orchard, where the trees are tapped and syrup and refined sugar made.

Nine American towns are named Naples.

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, March 16 (AP)—Stocks, led by steels and blue chips, put on a nice little rally today after considerable early hesitancy.

While many issues failed to finish on the upside, and others made only slight progress, favorites generally emerged with gains running to a point or so.

Dealings never attained any real momentum and in the morning the ticker frequently dozed. The lack of any actual urgency of offerings in the face of the Java sea reverses for the United Nations, more sinkings by enemy submarines in the Atlantic and continued tax skepticism apparently gave bidders the idea the list was ready to take the recovery trail.

In addition, Wall Street found further hope in reports congress was leaning toward a national sales tax. This, if enacted, it was believed, might reduce the corporate burden imposed by the present treasury program. An upturn in this week's estimated mill operations aided steels.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .3 of a point at 34.7, best comeback since March 3. Transfers totalled 315,310 shares against 339,390 Friday, another one of the smallest turnovers since last June.

Aircrafts improved at the last on indications this industry was rapidly expanding its facilities to huge war proportion.

New York, March 16 (AP)—Rails held the center of the stage in today's bond market on the basis of activity but the largest price swings were in the industrial and utilities fields.

Plus signs were added to the rails after the carriers asserted the price administration's request for postponement of the effective date of freight rate increases on certain commodities had no merit. News of the Interstate Commerce Commission's refusal to grant the OPA's request came after the market's close.

Leaders on the upswing included International Hydro-Electric 6s which closed at 26⅝, up 2¼, International Telephone 5s, up 2½ at 51½, and Laclede Gas 6s, up 2 at 92½.

The Hydro-Electric bonds went forward after word indicating interest due April 1 would be paid.

Sales totalled $7,546,700, par value, compared with $4,976,100, par value, Saturday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, March 16 (AP)—Rye led a general decline in the grain market again today, the minor bread cereal losing more than 2 cents a bushel at one time, with prices the lowest since early in the year.

Wheat was off a cent at the extreme and corn almost that much before selling was exhausted in all pits and prices recovered partially.

Stop loss orders were forced into execution in the rye pit, which accelerated the decline, but fundamental weakness was associated with poor demand for actual grain and possibility of increased distribution of Canadian rye in the domestic trade. Duty was paid on a cargo afloat at Milwaukee last week and traders pointed out that more Canadian rye is in storage in bond at some markets. Wheat continued to suffer from apathy of flour buyers and uncertainty regarding Washington farm program developments.

Wheat closed 3-8 to 3-4 cent lower than Saturday, May $1.28 3-4, July $1.30½ to $1.30 5-8; corn 3-8 to ½ down, May 87 7-8 to 87 3-4, July 90¼; oats 3-8 to 5-8 off; rye 1 3-8 to 1½ lower; soybeans 3-8 to 3-4 higher; lard unchanged at ceiling levels.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

INDIA.

I suppose that there is no subject under the sun to which more ignorant demagoguery has been devoted than India. Our ex-isolationists, especially, being by definition those who wish the United States to assume no responsibilities off her own soil, wax eloquent on the grievances of India, prepared to foment revolts all over the place.

Dorothy Thompson

The woes of India have afforded the Hitlerites some of their most remarkable propaganda material. They even have penetrated into theosophical societies and Indian occult groups from which to conduct anti-British propaganda, wisely refraining from quoting Mein Kampf on the subject. Of course, Mein Kampf was written when Hitler's day-dream was an alliance with the British for the mutual exploitation of the world, and at that time he approved British rule in India as "racially desirable," criticizing Britain only because she tended to be too soft.

If you ask the average person how many Britons are "ruling" India, you find that he thinks in terms of armies of officials and military leaders. If you tell him that the whole Indian civil service contains only 591 Englishmen he is amazed. Yet such is the truth.

Even my friend, John Gunther, in "Inside Asia," says that what the British get out of India is "booty, loot." Actually what they get is 4.9 per cent of an investment of about four billion dollars—British guaranteed credit being the cheapest in Asia—and Mr. Gunther tells us that among the things this money has built is the largest irrigation system on earth and a colossal railroad system.

I have spent much time in England and talked with many British officials of all parties, and I have yet to find one, Tory or Laborite, who does not wish to see full commonwealth status for India. The British do not want to see civil war in India; nor the Balkanization of India through a splitting off of the Moslem from the Hindu world; nor do they want to see India fall a prey to Japanese militarists, assisted by a Western Fifth Column taking its share.

The attitude of the British toward India has been steadily reformist since Pitt's India Act in 1784. India reforms in the last century cleaned out corruption, trained an Indian civil service to high standards of efficiency and morale, and 1858 saw the end of the administration of the East India company, the private corporation that first lured a rather reluctant British crown and parliament into India.

Indian boys, including Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, were trained in British schools and universities, and indeed it was British ideas of freedom, self-government, humanitarianism and progressivism that created the revolutionary spirit of modern India, along with the socialist ideas that became dynamic with the foundation of the Soviet Union.

In economic independence India has made tremendous strides since the last war. Since 1925 India has been highly protectionist against Britain. Only about a third of India's trade, import and export, is with Great Britain.

True, Britain with her native conservativism has pursued a step-by-step policy. She has been reformist, not revolutionary. And the problems of India are very great, as the Indian leaders themselves know. There is, for instance, the problem of the 50,000,000 "untouchables," a heritage from the rule of previous "master races." (For there has never in history been an independent India, nor indeed any united "India." and European penetration—British, Portuguese and French—followed the collapse of the rule of the Grand Mogul and Mongolian overlords from the dynasty of Genghis Khan.)

Then there are the acute religious differences. Of roughly 400,000,000 Indians, 90,000,000 are Moslems, with quite different ideas from those of the Hindus. And these 90,000,000 are the most consolidated section of the whole Moslem world. Can they be reconciled permanently with the Hindus? That is not a British but an Indian question, and no knowledgeable person believes that it will be easily solved.

And no Indian leader wishes the withdrawal of the protection of the British navy and air force, or of the United Nations. They do not want to be delivered back to a new grand Mogulism under the Japanese, or the Nazi Germans.

Sir Stafford Cripps, therefore, has been entrusted with a most difficult mission. He is a personal friend of Nehru, and two years ago drafted with Nehru an outline for a free Indian constitution.

Given our victory, the era of colonial imperialism is certainly over. We are fighting a war of liberation for a self-possessed world. But the liberation of Asia and its entry into complete self-possession is not something easy that can be accomplished by a few inflammatory speakers on lecture platforms.

The rising of China began under Sun Yat Sen in 1911, and it was precisely this movement toward Chinese renaissance that started the Japanese attack as it also has been the basis of the magnificent Chinese resistance.

Today India has to settle her affairs with the enemy at the gate. This is no time for reckless talk, but for the utmost sympathy and wisdom.

THE GHOST OF DR. GORDON
CHAPTER XXIX

"I think I should see Louise and—"

"Listen, Doctor. After Drake McHugh met with his accident Louise had a terrible scene with Dr. Gordon. Then, a few days later, we heard the strange report that he had actually married a—a—"

"A Miss Monaghan, whom I know quite well, and who has taken marvelous care of Drake, Mrs. Gordon."

"Really? It seems remarkable, doesn't it? But from that day on Louise refused to leave her room. Dr. Gordon was not really well at the time—he was frightfully overworked—and the burden of trying to manage her fell on me."

"Manage her?"

"I don't mean that she was violent. She wouldn't speak. Then Dr. Gordon passed away. And now I have to tell you a terrible thing." Mrs. Gordon was shaking. When—when my dear husband was lying—here—in this room, Louise came downstairs. I followed her after a few minutes, and found her—"

"Yes, Mrs. Gordon. Try to tell me—quietly."

"I—I found her—striking her dead father in the face, and—and cursing him!"

Parris caught his breath with surprise.

"I managed to get her upstairs without anyone knowing about—the incident. I locked her in her room. That's why she was not at the funeral."

"And afterward?"

"She kept silent. She showed no inclination to leave her room, and I decided it might be better to keep her door locked. She used to say terrible things about her father, and accuse him of unspeakable things. Dr. Mitchell, I want you to see Louise now and tell me what I should do. I—I cannot bear that my daughter should be insane, or that she should so defame the memory of a great man."

Parris arose quickly.

"Where is she?"

"I'll go with you. Then I'll leave you to talk to her."

Louise was lying on the bed with her arms crossed over her face.

"Daughter, listen to me. I've brought an old friend to see you."

Louise almost leapt from the bed. She looked wildly at Parris and sat down weakly.

"It's Parris Mitchell, daughter. Dr. Mitchell now, and he's come to see you."

Parris held out his hand. "Hello, Louise."

She looked at him for a full minute. "Parris?"

"I'm awfully glad to see you, Louise. It's been a long time."

"Yes." She repeated the words mechanically. "It's been a long time."

She kept her gaze fixed on his face. After a moment she turned toward her mother. "Go away."

Mrs. Gordon half sobbed, as she left the room.

Louise continued to stare. Her face was flushed. Her hair was untidy and hung about her shoulders. She was very thin, but her fragile prettiness remained.

She took a deep breath.

"You are Dr. Mitchell now?"

"Yes, Louise."

"I'm not crazy, Parris."

He smiled. "Of course not."

"It's a wonder I'm not, but I'm not."

"I know that, Louise."

"Have you seen Drake?"

"Yes."

"She married him!"

"Yes. She takes good care of him, Louise."

"My father cut his legs off, Parris."

"Yes, I know."

"Down at some kind of a depot. I saw the—I saw—"

"What do you mean, Louise?"

Parris laid his hand over hers, and she seized it with both of hers. "I saw what was left—on a table!"

Louise bit her lips hard.

"You must find out. There was a man who helped my father. Maybe he'd know."

"Yes, Louise. Know what?"

"He cut off Drake's legs on my account."

Parris started in spite of himself and, before he could think, drew back a little.

"You see! You think I'm crazy, too."

"Not at all. You surprised me." He spoke very quietly.

"That was one reason—the other was that he was a butcher. Oh, I read about things like that. He was cold as ice. He liked to butcher people. He was—oh, I knew the word once. I read it—Parris, you know—he was a sadist."

Parris held very still and kept his eyes on her face.

"Listen, Parris. This is my one chance. You've got to listen. I kept lists—he always talked about his operations. Other doctors don't do that. And nearly always he said the patient's heart was too weak for chloroform. But their hearts were not too weak to be cut to pieces. I tell you, Parris, he liked to hear them scream."

At that moment Parris was remembering, something—a bright, sunny day. Renee, Willie Macintosh, and the appalling howls and screams of a man in utter agony. A slight moisture came out on his brow.

"Parris!" Louise shook his arm. "I want you to begin quietly. I want you to gather all the evidence. I want—"

"But your father is dead, Louise. It's all over and done with."

"I want to destroy his memory!"

Parris leaned back in his chair and waited.

"Parris, will you help me?"

"Yes."

"What shall I do first?"

"Get up tomorrow and dress and go out."

She shrank away from him.

"You'll do that for me, won't you?"

The fright in her eyes subsided a little. "Yes, Parris."

"Fine. Now. . . ."

* * *

Dr. Thaddeus Nolan regarded Parris with scarcely concealed concern. Dr. Nolan had the face of a wise man, and a kind one. Several weeks earlier Parris had told him in detail the story of Louise Gordon. Since then they had discussed it a number of times. Parris had made no direct effort to check any of Louise's accusations, but Dr. Nolan was able to recall an incredible number of instances which fitted perfectly her story.

"How do you find Louise, Mitchell? Any change?"

"No. She goes about a great deal now. But I detect a slyness about her now that doesn't look well at all. She's got plans of some kind. It's a simple case, really, and runs exactly true to form."

Dr. Nolan tapped his front teeth with his pince-nez.

"I knew Gordon for more than thirty years." The remark seemed detached — apropos of nothing. But Parris knew that Dr. Nolan did not make remarks apropos of nothing.

"Dr. Nolan, I've never asked you one question, because I scarcely asked it of myself."

"I fancy I could guess it."

"I'd like to ask if you think there could be the slightest possible ground for Louise's charges against her father."

"Yes," he said quietly.

The answer was so unexpected that Parris gasped.

"You don't mean it."

"Certainly I mean it. Sadistic surgeons are not unknown in medical history."

"Well, yes. But heavens—"

"Mind you, I don't say we know anything about such a phase of Gordon, really. I knew that he was a fine diagnostician and an able surgeon. I never liked him, and in some ways I never trusted him. I don't suppose I ever asked myself why. Now, you're a little startled because you hear of some strange case that might have existed right here in Kings Row. If you had read of such a case existing in some remote town of Hungary, or Rumania, would you have been surprised, or shocked? Not at all."

"Yes, of course. I know, but—"

Dr. Nolan pulled at his short gray beard. "I said I wouldn't be surprised if there were grounds for Louise's belief. What she gathered, or imagined, or saw, or knew, is the cause of her trouble, not a result of it. You have ascertained that Gordon did actually beat her rather often. That's something to go on."

"But, my lord, if it were true—"

Parris flushed. His feelings were running away with him.

"Mitchell!"

"Yes, sir."

"You had better understand your own feeling in this matter. Is it because a remote possibility touches your friend, Drake McHugh?"

"Yes, sir. I'm fully aware of that. I've been trying to keep an even keel."

"Pretty hard, sometimes. Now, see here. Gordon is dead. Whatever damage he may have done is done, and can't be undone. You can't do anything to him."

"When I think of even a remote possibility that Drake McHugh—"

"Mitchell, I want to get you free of this Gordon case in some way. I don't like it. It isn't good for you. If Mrs. Gordon wants an ordinary, routine examination of Louise to determine her sanity, why that's our business, but these half-social, sub rosa tactics—it's not a good idea."

"Oh, she's convinced that Louise is practically herself again."

"There's another danger you haven't thought of—the obvious one. I'm surprised that you haven't thought of it."

"What is that?"

"Louise's attachment to you."

"What?"

"Why, it's plain as day. Just ordinary transference."

Parris sank back in his chair. "Oh, my goodness."

"You see if she should come to feel that you're not co-operating with her any more against the memory of her father, she'd turn on you right away."

Parris nodded. "Of course."

FAVORS HIGHER TEACHERS' PAY

LaFramboise Asks That More School Aid Be Granted

State Senator Joseph A. LaFramboise has written Governor Van Wagoner recommending that sufficient money be appropriated so that teachers may have an increase of $100 per year and a bonus this year of $45.

His letter, in part, follows:

"I have received several hundred letters from teachers throughout the Upper Peninsula relative to an additional appropriation for schools to be used for teachers' salaries.

"They point out that living costs have advanced from 20 to 30 per cent and that their salaries are far below the 1925 level; that they are on the front line of the home defense and are doing the job as far as morale is concerned. They also point out that state employes' salaries have been increased as well as the salaries of common labor. They say that due to the increase in primary money of $2,600,000 over the estimate when the state aid bill was drawn that $2,600,000 can be appropriated without getting the state budget out of balance. I hope you will see fit to put an additional appropriation for schools in your next call.

"I am a school board member in Gladstone and know how difficult it is going to be to keep our good teachers. They are going into other types of work due to the fact better salaries are being paid in industry.

"I would like to see enough money appropriated to give the teachers a bonus of $45 this year and an increase of $100 for next year."

Martinson-Carr

At a pretty candlelight wedding ceremony performed on Saturday evening at the First Lutheran church, Miss Adelie Dorothy Martinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Martinson, 425 Michigan avenue, became the bride of Henry F. Carr, Pheonix, Ariz., son of Mrs. Jeannette Carr, Lansing. The Rev. J. O. Magnuson read the marriage vows at 8:30 o'clock.

A program of nuptial music, including "At Dawning," "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me" was played by Mrs. J. O. Magnuson, organist, preceding the ceremony. Lohengrin's and Mendelssohn's wedding marches were played as the processional and recessional.

Mrs. Eugene Perkio, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Ed Martinson, brother of the bride, served as best man. Little Joyce Ann Perkio was flower girl.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming dress of navy and powder blue tailored crepe with gold trim, and a corsage of roses and sweet peas. Her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift of the bridegroom. Mrs. Perkio wore an ensemble. Joyce Ann wore a wine and white polka dot dress and carried carnations.

Mrs. Martinson, mother of the bride, wore a black dress with rose trimmed accessories and a corsage of sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A patriotic color scheme was carried out with a two tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom, serving as table center piece.

The couple left Sunday on a wedding trip through lower Michigan, the bride for traveling wearing a brown tailored suit, after which they will continue to Pheonix, Ariz., to make their home.

The bride is a graduate of Gladstone high school, Class of 1935, and the Badger Green Bay Business college, and has been employed at the Phil Hupy Insurance office. The groom graduated from Morley Consolidated high school in 1924 and from Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill. He is stationed with the army air force at Phoenix as staff sergeant.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John Martinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martinson, and Miss Margaret Erickson of Escanaba, and Mrs. Eugene Perkio and daughter, Joyce Ann, of Pontiac.

URGE RETURNS ON SEAL SALE

Money Used to Combat Tuberculosis In Nation

A final appeal for returns, either money or stamps, is made by the Christmas Seal sale committee of the Child's Welfare club in order that they will make a final report to the state association.

Complete and final reports have to be made to the state association by April 1 and in a few instances there are persons who probably through oversight have failed to make a return. Committee members urge that this be done immediately in order that the report be as complete as possible.

The gross sale of 1941 T-B seals, according to the committee chairman, is $291.30 to date. This is nearly $25 more than the 1940 total.

However, this and more will be needed as statistics reveal that with every war the number of cases of tuberculosis increases greatly.

Of the gross amount received here 50 per cent is sent to the state and national associations for education and research while the other half is retained by the local club for use in early diagnosis and case finding.

Since April 1, 1941, the Welfare club has spent over $150 in tests, transportation to Powers and X-rays, it is announced.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Can A Divided India Withstand Invasion

By PAUL J. C. FRIEDLANDER
Wide World Features Writer

India is bracing herself now for a possible invasion from the Aryan (according to Hitler) Germans from the west and from the Aryan (also according to Hitler) Japanese from the east.

Three thousand years ago India was overwhelmed by a real Aryan (ethnologically speaking) invasion. Many of the tangled problems that make her proposed independence a headache both to England and India can be traced to that first invasion.

In a generally tropical country as large as that of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains, 350 million people representing more than 45 races speak 225 languages, are separated into 2,400 castes and tribes, and practice nine major religions. Eleven provinces have some measure of supervised self-government while 562 Indian states are ruled by Indian princes.

How to compromise all these conflicts is the India problem—then how to keep them compromised under an independent native government.

British opponents of independence assert it can't be done. Indian independence leaders say it can; Indian moderates aren't sure; Indian minorities are worried about what would happen to their rights under Hindu majority control.

Winston Churchill has sent Sir Stafford Cripps to India with another promise of independence—after the war—IF the government's scheme can "win a reasonable and practical measure of acceptance."

In 1939 Mohandas K. Gandhi, nominal head of the Congress Party (Hindu movement for complete, immediate independence) rejected talk of protecting minority rights until after freedom was achieved. A year later Gandhi feared civil war from the Moslem's militant attitude.

Congress Party leftists then threatened civil war to prevent a possible compromise with the British, and Sir Hugh O'Neill, Parlimentary under secretary for India, told Commons Britain would not grant India complete independence. Later that year, Britain prmised India free and equal partnership in her empire. The India problem goes round and round like a whirling dervish.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, now active leader of the Congress Party, demands freedom without dominion status and says he represents most of India's 240 million Hindus. But the Hindus are divided by their religion which is really a caste system of society, topped by the supreme Brahmins and reaching down to 50 million untouchables.

It is this system the Hindus received from their first Aryan invasion. The lighter-skinned Aryans set up castes to prevent intermarriage with natives. The complicated form of worship they invented to bulkwark their caste system eventually developed into Hinduism.

The 77 million Moslems or Mohammedans practice a monotheistic and democratic religion even more at odds with the Hindus and their caste system than are the religious of the six million Indian Christians, the more than four million Sikhs the one and a quarter million Jains (a modification of Hinduism).

The Moslem League wants Moslem independence from the Hindus and the rest of India as well as from England, with the northeast territories as their own independent state. The Sikhas, the warrior tribes who live there, object, along with Hindus and other minorities of that section.

The Parsees, descendants of early Persian settlers in India, who constitute most of the capitalist class, can't go along with Nehru's Congress because they fear his pledge to socialize Indian industry and his interest in Marxism and Russian Communism.

In the meantime, the untouchables are struggling with the help of enlightened members of the higher castes to lift their caste restrictions. In a crowded thoroughfare of a modern city it is difficult to keep an untouchable or his shadow from touching a Brahmin.

But an orthodox Brahmin must purify himself with elaborate ceremonies if this happens and the untouchable is wise to avoid his wrath.
